

REFEREE AWARDS ZOTTE DECISION IN 20TH ROUND

McClintic's Protege and Monte Attell Go Full Route in Battle Before 700 Fans at Midvale.

ARBITERS' JUDGMENT FAILS OF APPROVAL

Ad Zotte, the dark-skinned protege of Sammy McClintic, was awarded the decision at Midvale last night over the veteran Monte Attell. Referee Frank Armstrong gave Zotte the verdict after twenty rounds of milling that pleased a crowd of more than 700 fight fans, but the ruling fell far short of meeting with the approval of disinterested spectators. Good judges of boxing were unanimous in declaring that Attell had a decided shade and the very worst he should have had was a draw. In addition to showing by far the better ring generalship, he was much more aggressive than his younger opponent and had the better of eight rounds of the milling. Zotte led in six rounds and the remaining six were practically even.

Running a close second in favor of the audience was an impromptu bout which gave the audience a great degree of satisfaction and amusement. "Mutt" Simms, an appropriately named preliminary fighter who went on in the semi-final with Sammie Martin, was so peeved with the decision of Referee Ed Wright in calling the bout a draw that he made a "pass" at that official. Wright promptly came back with a hard, open-handed slap to each cheek of "the mutt" and followed the latter to his corner, inviting him to come back for more of the same kind. The crowd yelled its delight and the near-fighter was hooted from the hall.

Attell and Zotte adherents in the crowd were equally divided and both men were cordially received when they entered the ring. From the top of the gong in the first round, Monte assumed the aggressive tactics he kept up throughout the fight and, following Zotte's lead, around the ring, he played heavily on the colored boy's wind. In the latter part of the first round Zotte landed several stiff blows to the face, evening up on Attell's early advantage. The second and third rounds were also even, although Attell drew blood from Zotte's lips in the third.

The fourth and fifth rounds were Attell's by a wide margin. He kept up a constant tation on Attell's wind and seemed able to land as will. He landed seven hard rights to the body in rapid succession and laughed at Zotte's wild swings. Zotte was entitled to a slight shade in the sixth, four stiff blows to the face, evening up on Attell's early advantage. The seventh and eighth rounds were also even, although Attell drew blood from Zotte's lips in the third.

The ninth and tenth rounds were also even, although Attell drew blood from Zotte's lips in the third. The eleventh and twelfth rounds were also even, although Attell drew blood from Zotte's lips in the third.

The thirteenth and fourteenth rounds were also even, although Attell drew blood from Zotte's lips in the third. The fifteenth and sixteenth rounds were also even, although Attell drew blood from Zotte's lips in the third.

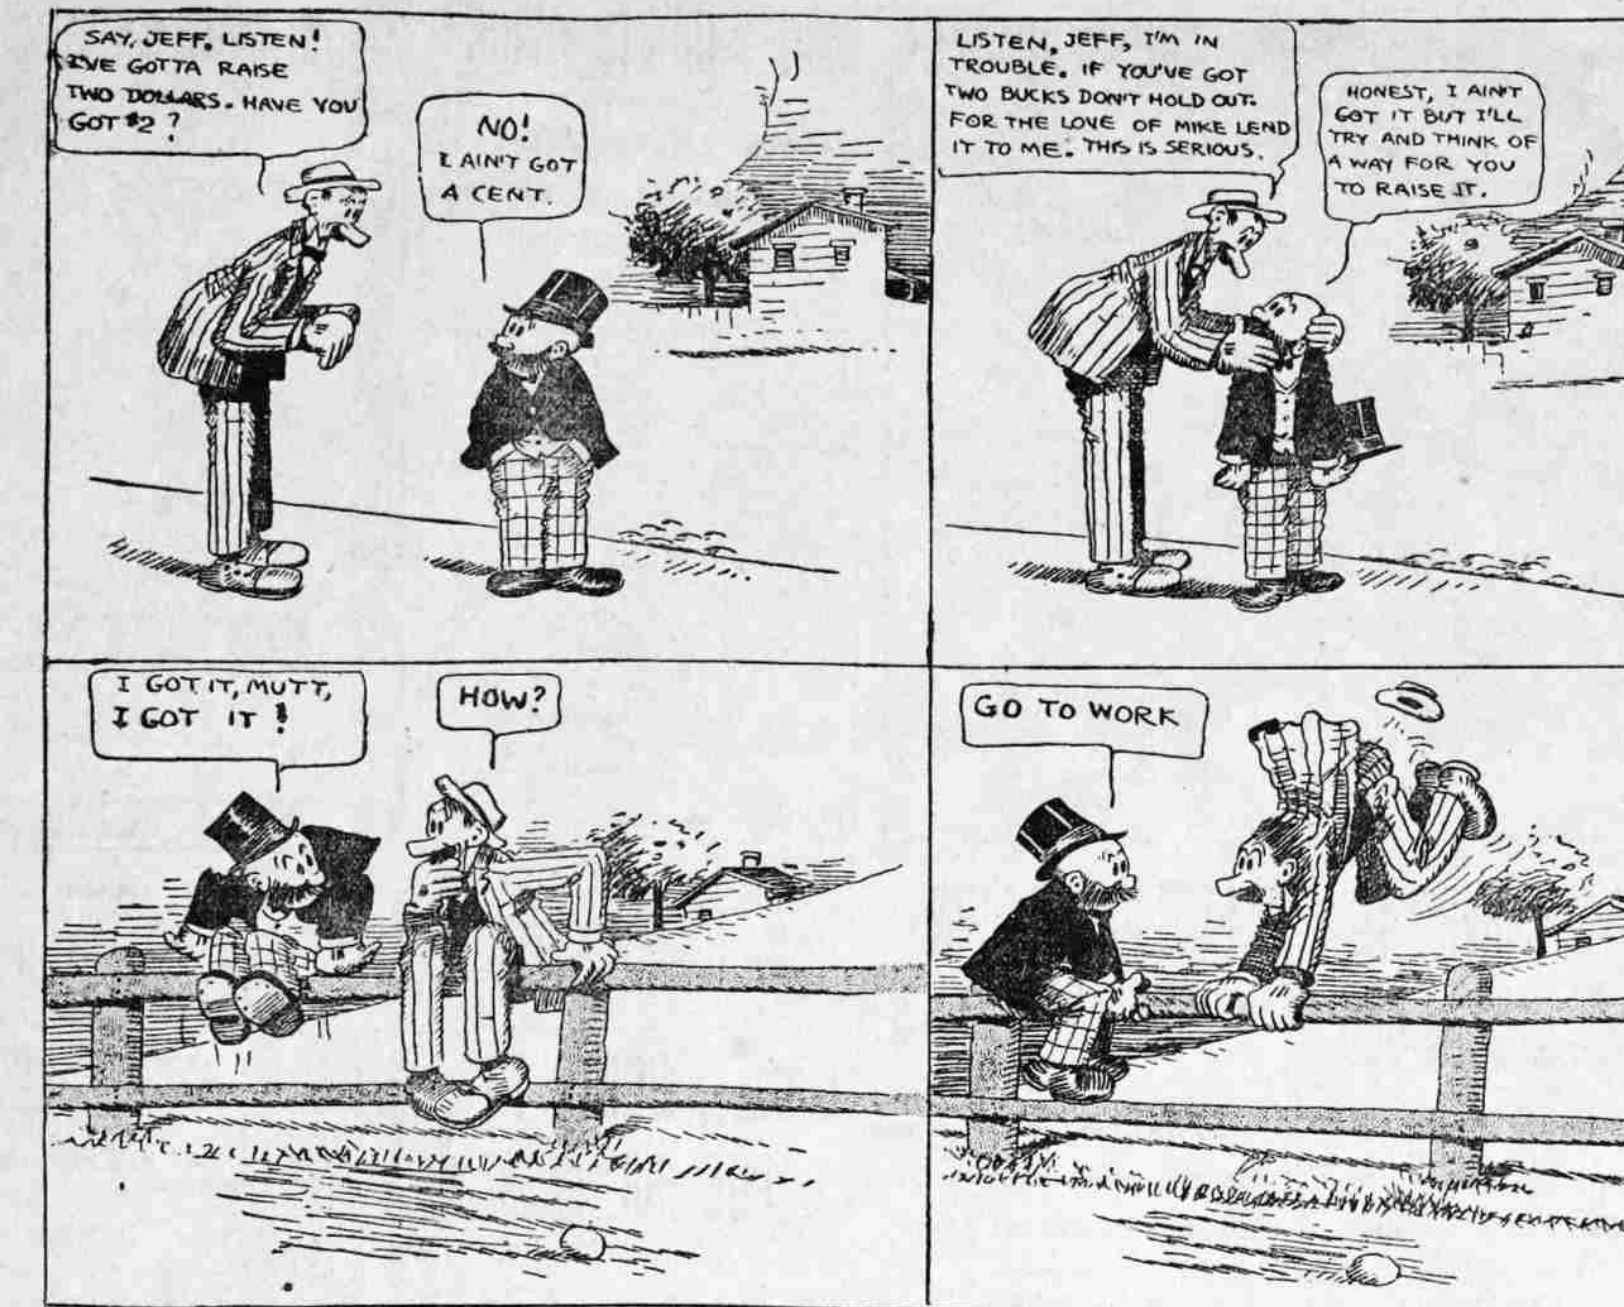

The seventeenth and eighteenth rounds were also even, although Attell drew blood from Zotte's lips in the third. The nineteenth and twentieth rounds were also even, although Attell drew blood from Zotte's lips in the third.

The twenty-first and twenty-second rounds were also even, although Attell drew blood from Zotte's lips in the third. The twenty-third and twenty-fourth rounds were also even, although Attell drew blood from Zotte's lips in the third.

The twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth rounds were also even, although Attell drew blood from Zotte's lips in the third. The twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth rounds were also even, although Attell drew blood from Zotte's lips in the third.

The twenty-ninth and thirtieth rounds were also even, although Attell drew blood from Zotte's lips in the third. The thirty-first and thirty-second rounds were also even, although Attell drew blood from Zotte's lips in the third.

Salt Lake Gets Even With Visitors for One Defeat

Umpire LaRocque Revises His Understanding of Ground Rules and Goes Right on Home-run Hits; Contest Hard-Swattin Battle.

Salt Lake 15, Ogden 10.
Helena 0, Great Falls 3.
Missoula 8, Butte 3.

The chief feature of yesterday's game between Ogden and Salt Lake was the dream that Umpire LaRocque dreamed over night. In his nocturnal vision, his umpness saw a great light. The name of the illumination was that a batted ball which hits the roof of a house two or three miles away from the lot and bounds back into the yard is a home run. LaRocque put his dream to the test yesterday afternoon when Foley batted one to a neighboring house and was gathered in when it came back on its own power. Foley was given a home run and, what is more, he sent in a runner ahead of him.

The crowd asked LaRocque about it. "Well, I ought to be right in two trials, hadn't I?"

In view of LaRocque's revision on that particular kind of hit, based on a better understanding of the ground rules, the umpire had refused to recognize as a home run a ball hit by Huelman that struck the top of a roof and rebounded into the field.

Double-header Today.

The next best feature of yesterday's game was the announcement by the umpire that there will be a two-header this afternoon. The first game starts at 2:30 o'clock. Gates will be open at 1 o'clock. Come on down, fellows, and let's help McCloskey win both of 'em. We need those two today, seeing that Hester won again yesterday.

The game yesterday was a swatting-fest for Salt Lake. Twenty-one hits and hits were marked up against the Ogden pitchers. The twenty-one, amplified by a few errors on the part of the visitors, counted fifteen runs for Salt Lake. Ogden made ten runs in their eleven hits, a similar amplification on the part of Salt Lake.

Morgan pitched five innings for Salt Lake, allowing nine hits. Gaud and Hester pitched for Ogden, allowing twenty-two hits. The twenty-two, amplified by a few errors on the part of the visitors, counted fifteen runs for Salt Lake. Ogden made ten runs in their eleven hits, a similar amplification on the part of Salt Lake.

The fielding feature—that makes three features, now—was a one-hand catch by Hayes of Jack Bauer's long fly. It was a true, main performance. Matt Anderson, Ogden player to distinguish himself, was a terrific head when he caught Schimpf's morose drive into left in the fifth.

Shakes Off Hoodoo.

McCloskey took decisive steps before yesterday's game to lose the grin that has been hanging over the team like a bad omen. He was on the job yesterday. He called McCloskey to the stand and hauled forth from his capacious pocket a long case. He carefully unscrewed the top and drew therefrom a rabbit's foot.

Murphy started off with a hit. Bauer fides on Perkins caught Murphy trying to steal second. Huelman got a single and went to second when Dressan got a pass. Spencer hit a hard one and Huelman scored. Dressan made a wobbler on Schimpf's grounder.

Four were marked up for Salt Lake in the second. Morgan got life and went to second on a bad throw by Fidler. Morgan singled. Murphy sacrificed to Morgan, scoring Moore. Bauer got a hit. Morgan scored on Huelman's two-bagger, and both Bauer and Huelman came home on Spencer's drive. A double retired the side.

One was added for Salt Lake in the fourth. With one down, Schimpf lived on Dorch's error, making second on it. He came home on Davis's single.

Two were garnered in the fifth. With one out, Huelman singled. He went to third on Dressan's double, and he and Dressan both came sailing home on Spencer's single.

One resulted in the sixth. Davis hit. He advanced to second on Moore's single, and came home on Gaud's two-bagger.

The seventh was good for one. Dressan drew free transportation, went to second on Spencer's sacrifice, to third on Foley's error and came in on Schimpf's sacrifice fly.

Put on Ice.

Four times in the eighth put the game in a close spin. In the refrigerator, Gaud started off by firing out to Hayes. Murphy got a base on balls, went to second on Bauer's single. Huelman hit for two on Morgan's sacrifice. Dressan fled to Foley. And then Spencer stepped up once more, like the game swatter he is. He singled, bringing in Huelman and Dressan. Spencer stepped up and came to tea on Schimpf's two-bagger.

It may be remarked here that Spencer drew free transportation, went to second on Foley's error, and came home on Schimpf's sacrifice fly. He came home on Schimpf's sacrifice fly.

Ogden counted three times in the third. Wesler drove it over the left field fence for one of them. Perkins went out. Gaud and Hester pitched for Ogden, allowing twenty-two hits. The twenty-two, amplified by a few errors on the part of the visitors, counted fifteen runs for Salt Lake. Ogden made ten runs in their eleven hits, a similar amplification on the part of Salt Lake.

HELENA IS UNABLE TO SOLVE WILLIAMS

Great Falls Pitcher Holds Trekkell Pitches Steady Ball and Has Good Support; Hits Are Even.

Special to The Tribune.
HELENA, May 29.—Williams, pitching for Great Falls, shut out Helena today while his teammates garnered three runs and the game. Williams was master of the situation all the way through. When danger threatened he tightened and did not give the Vigilantes a chance. It was an interesting contest from the spectators' viewpoint.

TRIALS OF PELKY AND BURNS LONG WAY OFF; M'CARNEY IS THROUGH

CALGARY, Alberta, May 29.—The trials of Tommy Burns and Arthur Pelky, both charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Luther McCarty in the prize-fight here last Saturday, will not be held for some time, according to Superintendent Dean of the Royal Northwest Mounted police, in a statement today. On June 16, Superintendent Dean said, the court will hear arguments as to a further postponement. If no special session is ordered the case will not be heard until the October term. The estate of McCarty, according to friends here, amounts to $25,000. Of this, $10,000 is in a bank at San Francisco, $5,000 in Los Angeles real estate and $5,000 in personal property.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 29.—"I will never manage another prize fighter nor attend another bout," declared William McCarty, who arrived here late today with the body of Luther McCarty. Mrs. McCarty, widow of the fighter, met the train at Fargo, N. D., and is accompanying the body to St. Paul, Minn.

GIRL PEDESTRIANS TO PASS THROUGH ZION

COMMERCIAL CLUB WILL ARRANGE MARATHON; TO FORM BASEBALL TEAM

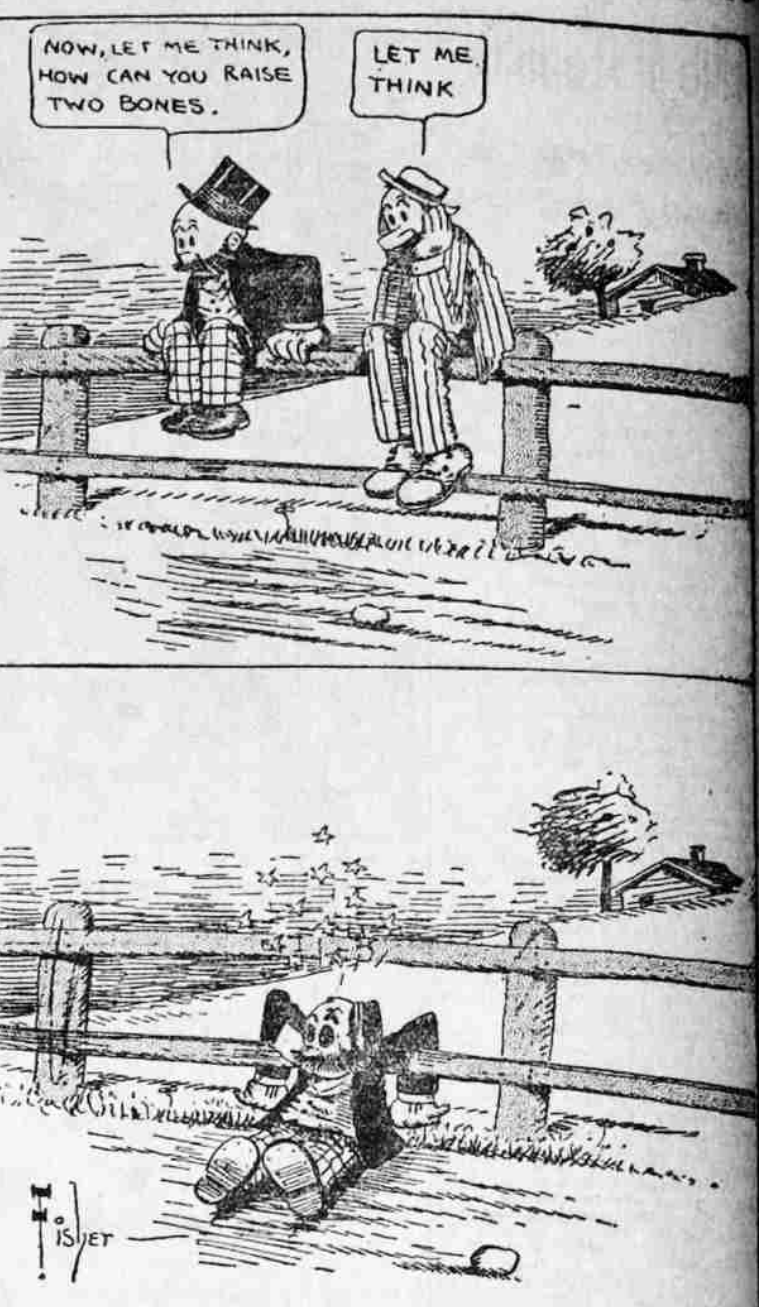

Tentative plans for a ten-mile marathon, to be run free-for-all, under the direction of the Commercial club, were made at a meeting of the field sports committee yesterday. The committee discussed the success of similar events in eastern cities and decided it would be a success here. A committee consisting of Freeman Bassett, George Ames, R. J. Froust, H. S. Harper and Ambrose Nord was appointed to make plans for the Marathon and report at a later meeting.

The first steps towards organizing a Commercial club baseball team were taken with the selection of Freeman Bassett as manager. It is planned to hold practices twice a week and to play such stellar aggregations as the Press club and other famous nines. The first practice will be held at Lucas field Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

Already enough candidates for baseball honors to form a real team have come forward and the outlook is promising. R. G. Halloran, who was one of the slab artists for the team last year, declares he is in proper form for another season. George Ames will probably hold down first sack and conduct arguments with the umpires. Sam R. Neel will try for shortstop. Among the others who he signed up by Manager Bassett are H. M. Johnson, Sam Williams, R. G. Armstrong and J. P. Breeden.

Soldiers Beat Actors.
Company L baseball team yesterday defeated the "Brewerwoman" company players on Fort Douglas grounds by a score of 13 to 3. Parker, the pitcher for Company L, struck out twenty-two players and allowed only four hits. The batteries for the winners were Parker and Wanta. For the show troupe Burke and Park worked. Any teams wishing games with company L should call Fort Douglas and ask for Manager Gladfelter of company L.

MAKE WAGERS ON DEATHS IN TODAY'S AUTO RACE

Men and Women Venture Bets on Number Fatalities; Twenty-seven to Start in Blood-curdling Contest.

By International News Service.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29.—With their racing creations in perfect trim and carefully guarded by armed state militiamen, twenty-seven drivers, who tomorrow will risk their lives in an effort to capture $50,000 in cash prizes, tonight are anxiously awaiting the fall of the starter's flag, which will be the signal for the opening of the annual 300-mile Memorial day race at the Indianapolis motor speedway. The record of 78.72 miles an hour, made in last year's race, is expected to be exceeded. The speedway is two and a half miles in circumference. Weather prospects for the race, which will probably be the last held on the local course, indicate a warm day with possibly showers.

The winner of the great race will receive $20,000, the second man $10,000 and the third $5,000. The balance of the $50,000 purse will go to the rest of the finishers down to the tenth, who will receive $140. In addition to these prizes there are other emoluments from accessory concerns and the winner will get more than $30,000 for his day's work.

Death Lurks in Curves

For more than six hours tomorrow the men in the steering wheels of the race cars will thrill the throngs of speed-hungry spectators. Those who want the most thrills per minute have purchased seats overlooking the disheveled curves. They know that death for a pilot and his mechanic lurks in the oil-covered brick pavement if the slightest violation
